Dr. A.P.T. Sah President of the University of Amoy c/o Division of Cultural Cooperation State Department Washington, D.C.

Dear President Sah:

It is with interest that I have noted the fact that you have come to America as a guest of the Department of State. We have all heard of the University of Amoy, and recent reports brought by Professor George Cressey indicate that the University has succeeded better than almost every other university in China in maintaining high standards. This is especially gratifying to me because Dr. Hsieh Yü-ming, who I understand is your Dean, was a pupil of mine, for whom I had a great deal of affection and who collaborated with me in producing a textbook on physics as specially adapted to Chinese life.

I should like to reestablish connections with Dr. Hsieh and shall be grateful if you will tell me how to address him. I have tried to write to him, but he has lived in so many places since leaving Peiping in 1937 that I fear my letters have not reached him. If you are writing to him, please convey to him my very best wishes.

I am sure that your stay in America will be of great advantage to the institutions which you visit here. I trust it will also be satisfactory to yourself.

With very kind regards,

Sincerely yours,

Charles H. Corbett

Dear Dr. Corbett,

I have your letter of December 21st and I want to thank you for the same.

Dr. Hsieh has been with us for four years now. He has been a tremendous help to the University and has been transferred to be Dean of the Studies after having been Dean of the College of Science for the first two years. Letters for him may be addressed to the Office of the Dean, National University of Amoy, Changting, Fukien, China. So far I have not received any letter from them because of the isolation of that part of China from Chungking. However, I have had a cable from them saying that everything is well in Fukien, although the enemy has cut China into two since my arrival in this country.

You may perhaps be interested to know that the Fukien Christian University and Hwa Nan College are both in Fukien, doing quite good work and serving that area during war time with credit.

First, because we know that the present financial crisis makes it unusually difficult for our friends to help us; and second, because contributions coming under such circumstances give us the satisfaction of feeling that these friends have unusual confidence in Yenching University.

Dear Miss Andrews:

I wish to thank you heartily for your cheque for $50.00 which has just come to us. We appreciate very much indeed your help at this crucial time in the finances of Yenching University.

Not only have contributions fallen off very decidedly during the last two or three years; the rate of exchange on American money has also fallen considerably. Between these two we have lost very heavily in our income.

We are glad to report that in spite of the drastic cuts which have had to be made in our budget, that Yenching has had a most successful year during the past academic year. We are economizing in every possible way for the coming year and hope that through the continued support of our friends we may be able to carry on even though our income is likely to be less.

Assuring you of our appreciation of your gift and hoping for the continuation of your support, I am,

Very sincerely,

December 6, 1935

My dear Miss Andrews:

May I acknowledge with gratitude on behalf of the Trustees of Yenching University the receipt of your check for $25, designated for the Women's College.

It is a matter of very real gratitude that in spite of political disturbances in North China which we felt night adversely influence the attendance at Yenching, the enrollment this year is greater than ever before. This fact is clear evidence that China is eager to avail herself of the opportunities for education under Christian auspices. Nothing but the very best which the West has to offer is good enough, as China faces the stupendous task of laying sound foundations for her national development.

We are, therefore, bending every effort to secure the funds necessary to offset the loss caused by the reduction in the value of the American dollar, and the falling off of American gifts due to the present period of financial restrictions. We are committed to a program of rigid economy in the administration of the University, and assure you and other friends of Yenching that your gifts will bring in a maximum return.

You have for many years been a loyal friend of Yenching. Please let me assure you of our genuine gratitude for your recent gift.

Very sincerely yours,

Miss Kate R. Andrews 19 Prince Street Rochester, New York Mabel M. Roys (Mrs. Charles K.) For the Women's College Committee of Yenching University

December 21, 1936

My dear Miss Andrews:

On the occasion of attaining "the honorable age of sixty years" last summer. Dr. Stuart took advantage of the opportunity afforded by celebration of this significant Chinese cycle of years to express the hope that the scholastic year ahead might be one of the most significant in Yenching's history.

Enrolment and the spirit of her faculty indicate that in so far as campus activities are concerned, his hope is to be realized.

At the same time the financial situation of the University requires that we redouble our efforts to secure the $221,500 which represents her immediately pressing needs.

This includes $21,500 required to balance the Operating Budget; $100,000 toward General Endowment; $50,000 for Women's College Endowment; $25,000 toward the School of Religion Endowment, and $25,000 for the Department of Physical Education Endowment.

All of this must be secured without delay if the work is to go forward effectively.

Just about a year ago you made a contribution of $25.00 for the budget of the Women's College of Yenching University.

Owing to the urgency of the present need, I hope that you will again respond to our appeal at this time, and, if possible, increase your gift for this work.

Sincerely yours,

Mrs. John H. Finley Chairman

My dear Miss Andrews:

We have received your very generous check for $25.00, and enclose herewith our official receipt.

We are sincerely grateful for this gift, not only because of the financial help which it will give at Yenehing, but also because we feel that it is an expression of your continued interest and faith in the university and in its president and faculty who are giving their lives to this vitally important project in China.

Progress at Yenching has been going forward in a very satisfactory way, though of course the problem of adequate support has been a serious problem during the period of economic depression. Every gift, therefore, helps toward a solution of this problem.

Sincerely yours.

Miss Kate R. Andrews 19 Prince Street Rochester, New York

Don Suin January 9, 1937 Memo to Mr. Wannamaker Re: Gift from Miss Kate R. Andrews. We are of course in complete agreement as to the handling of Miss Andrews' contributions. But for the clarification of our records and of our future procedure, we should keep in mind that not only one principle, but three principles are involved. The first principle is that you referred to - the distribution of Miss Andrews' gifts equally between Yenching, Linguan, and the entire group of colleges, except in cases where she specifically designtes some definite objective. This we all agree to, and are trying to follow out faithfully. The second principle is one that we will all instantly agree to in principle, but which is not always so easy to follow out in practice. It is that we must faithfully follow out the wishes of the donor, not only to meet our obligations in connection with the gift under consideration but for the sake of future gifts. We must not lose sight of this principle for already we have gotten a rather vigorous reaction from some of our contributers who felt they were being claimed too exclusively by institutions to which they had contributed in the past, in the form of protests that we must let them choose their own objectives in future, The third principle we must recognize is that a contributor can designate a gift for distribution among the entire group of Colleges just as definitely as he can designate it for a single institution. This also we would all agree to in principle, though it is not always easy to work out in practice. Our procedure in the past has been that in all cases of doubt, we have continued to allocate gifts to the institutions where the donor has given in the past. We are all anxious to maintain and strengthen theme contacts between individual and specific pieces of work. We are just as eager to get gifts designated for individual institutions as for the entire enterprise. But we must not lose sight of the fact that in at least some cases our donors desire to broaden their giving to include the whole field of Christian higher education in China. Too much insistence of restricting gifts to previously designated objectives would ultimately alienate some supporters and cut off gifts which would otherwise be available. So far as Miss Andrews' gift of $100 is concerned, in the absence of any very definite information as to her wishes, it would seem in order to distribute this equally between Yenching, Lingman, and the entire group of Colleges. We therefore attach a check to the order of the Lingman Trustees in the amount of $33.33. B. A. Garside BAG/G Enc.

Miss Kate R. Andrews. 19 Prince Street Rochester, New York

My dear Miss Andrews:

During the year ending June 30, generous men and women in this country achieved a human service of great value to China. By donations aggregating $300,000. they enabled twelve Christian colleges to keep open the door of opportunity for thousands of the choicest young men and young women of China. This aid was earnestly craved by the Chinese people and government. Indeed, the interest of the government in the maintenance of education for its young people during this terrible struggle with Japan is one of the most remarkable examples in history of the recognition of the value of education.

All these colleges are still carrying on. Some are on their own campuses, not in the direct line of hostile action. Others have migrated great distances and are occupying makeshift structures. All are doing their utmost to see that, when the war ends, a new group of trained young leaders shall be ready to add their strength to that of the inadequate number prepared to serve China.

Throughout the year 1937-38 Lingman remained on its own campus, keeping open the door of opportunity for South China. In spite of hundreds of air raids on the surrounding country, we never suffered any damage. But the Japanese army has now invaded Kwangtung Province. Almost certainly Lingman will continue its work at Hongkong. Tenching University has a large enrollment and carries on almost normally in spite of Japanese control of the whole region of Peiping.

There was never a time when our Christian colleges were in greater need of the understanding, goodwill, and support of American friends. We earnestly appeal to all such friends to help at this time of their devoted and heroic service to the Chinese people.

You have been a loyal helper of Lingman and Yenching. We trust you can continue your help to these two leading colleges while it is so urgently needed and of such great value.

Gratefully yours.

My dear Miss Andrews:

All sorts of pressure at this office and an absence from the city explain my failure to acknowledge with more than our formal receipt your generous contribution sent in response to my request of October 21. During my absence, our receipt went to you for that $100. I write to say, however, that we are handing our check for $50. to the office of Yenching University here since you have helped both of these institutions for years and since my request was in behalf of both Lingman and Yenching.

I know you will be glad to know that Yenching University has the largest enrollment in its history and that, in spite of the Japanese capture of the city of Canton, we are carrying on our work in Hongkong. Through a most generous arrangement of Hongkong University, a British colonial institution, staffed very largely by Chinese and for Chinese students, 500 of the 620 students who had enrolled at Lingman are going on with their semester's work under our own teachers. We have use of the buildings of Hongkong University in the early morning, late afternoon, and evening hours for this purpose.

In the meanwhile, about one-third of our American staff and wives and a small part of the Chinese personnel are on our own campus caring for more than 6,000 pitiable refugees escaping to this safe spot from the horrors of Canton. I am glad to say that, through the good offices of the Church Committee for Relief in China, we have received from Shanghai on our campus sufficient moment to care for these refugees and do not have to take that out of our purely educational funds.

We are struggling with all possible energy to obtain enough money for the present fiscal year to sustain all the Christian Colleges in China during this horrible catastrophe.

My dear Miss Andrews:

We cordially invite you to be the guest of the Yenching Trustees at a dinner to be held at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel at seven-fifteen o'clock on the evening of February twenty-eighth.

The primary purpose of the dinner will be to pay honor to Mr. E. M. McBrier. This month Mr. McBrier begins his twenty-third year as the Treasurer of the Yeaching Trustees. You are acquainted with the vital part which his devotion and leadership have had in the growth of this Christian educational center during the past quarter-century.

Dr. Edward H. Hume, together with Professor Hubert S. Liang of Yenching University, will be the principal speakers. The field authorities are sending laudatory Chinese scrolls and letters of felicitation.

All of Mr. McBrier's friends - both those who will be present and others scattered throughout the world - are being asked to send us letters and messages of felicitation, which will be bound and presented to him. You are of course invited to send us such a message for inclusion in this book of remembrance.

All letters and messages should be addressed to the Yenching office in my care, and not direct to Mr. McBrier, as we purpose to keep theret the details of this "conspiracy" to do him honor.

We realize that it may not be practicable for you to come from Rochester to attend the dinner, but we hope that if at all possible, you will be with us.

Very sincerely yours,

June 8, 1939

Dear Miss Andrews:

You have long been aware of the close relationship between Wellesley College and the Yenching College for Women, a relationship which may have had a part in creating your interest in the work of the China Colleges. You are aware, too, of the many reasons for the existence of our sister-college tie with Yenching, among them being Miss Pendelton's service on the Yenching Board of Trustees, Mme. Chiang Kai-shek's member-ship on the field committee for the Yenching Women's College, and the other distinguished Chinese women - such as Hsieh Wan-ying, the poetess, the late Ping-sa Hu (Mrs. T. C. Chu), and Mrs. D. Y. Lin - who have linked the Yenching and Wellesley campuses. There seems to be an excellent background for a sister connection which will mean more and more as the years go on.

As college women we are especially impressed with the fact that the Chinese colleges have provided leaders whose courage and determination are invaluable in this time of national crisis. As Wellesley women we are especially proud of Yenching's record in this respect. It would seem, then, that the logical point for Wellesley women to place their gifts to harassed China is at Yenching, where Wellesley already has a partial responsibility. And this is perhaps the crucial moment to do that thing which we have left undone, namely, to organize Wellesley alumnae as contributors to the Yenching College for Women.

For many years Wellesley undergraduates have given from their Service Fund to Yenching;— at the present time their annual gift is $3750. So far there have been no alumnae contributions gathered under the name of Wellesley, although several Wellesley graduates, like yourself, have given generously, and one of our fellow alumnae has given a faculty residence on the Yenching campus in memory of Miss Pendleton. The possibility is now being explored of having a Wellesley Alumnae Committee for Yenching through whom information will be available and gifts acceptable.

Miss McAfee's personal interest in Yenching is shown by her membership on the Board of Trustees of that University. She is also a Vice-President of the Associated China Colleges, of which Yenching is one.

During the days of Commencement next week, we shall be discussing the matter with individual alumnae. It will be a great help to have before us some tangible evidence of cooperation from a few Wellesley women whom we know as already committed in mind and spirit to the work of Yenching.

The initial proposal is that we plan, as Wellesley graduates, to fill an acute need - one of which Dean Margaret Speer of Yenching has spoken with special urgency - a chair of Public Affairs, to be held by a woman. This Department is an important one at Yenching; it has trained a considerable number of China's leaders, and will continue to do so. This chair would bear the Wellesley name, and we hope to assure it from annual gifts until we are able to endow it. The necessary yearly sum is $5000. We believe we could gather one-half of this in small gifts if the other half could be assured in larger units.

Will you consider being one of several Wellesley alumnae to give $500 to $1000 annually for the next five years to help in the assurance of this Wellesley chair at Yenching? I shall hope for your affirmative reply before I must start for Wellesley on June 15th, and I shall be most grateful, also, for your criticism of this plan.

Sincerely yours,

Mrs. Maurice T. Moore Wellesley 1924

P.S. A word of explanation of the use of my signature for this important communication. As a Wellesley alumna having the good fortune to have been born in China and to be the daughter of one of the American founders of Yenching University, I have been asked to be the Chairman of the Committee on Promotion for the Yenching Women's College. The knowledge that a few Wellesley alumnae - like yourself - could be counted on has helped me to decide to undertake the task, and to begin planning to make the Wellesley cooperation more effective.

Miss Kate R. Andrews 19 Prince Street Rochester, N. Y.

19 January 1940

My dear Miss Andrews:

As you no doubt know, Wellesley undergraduates contribute substantially to the support of Yenching, our Chinese sister-college. Quite a few alumnae have continued that interest of their college days by contributing generously to Yenching, but without reference to the Wellesley connection. For several years some of these alumnae have been intending to encourage other alumnae to join their ranks, and to send their gifts as Wellesley Alumnae.

To that end we have now cleared with the president of the Alumnae Association the question of just how we should undertake the project. Because of a clause in the Alumnae Fund agreemant, we agreed with her that it would not be undertaken as an Alumnae Association project (as is the case in the Smith-Ginling relationship). But we were assured that we were free to go ahead as an independent committee of alumnae. This permission, added to miss McAfee's hearty cooperation, has encouraged us to proceed.

I enclose a rough draft of the letter that we propose sending out to all alumnae, accompanied by pictures of Yenching, and a copy of a recent letter to us from Mme. Chiang Kai-shek (Wellesley 1917). The letterhead is to include the simple heading: WELLESLEY - YENCHING, 150 Fifth Avenue, New York, New York, the address being the office of the Associated China Universities of which Yenching is one.

A very informal committee is helping me here in New York - Candace Stimson, 1892; Miriam Boyd Parlin, 1921; Josephine Rathbone, 1922; Lurena Wilson Tower, 1916; Carol Williams Horton, 1921; Constance Hayes Wheeler, ex-1913; Louise Child, 1924; and my sister Emmavial Severinghaus, 1922. We should like very much to include your name on our letterhead, with the names of Eliza Hall Kendrick, 1885; Belle Sherwin, 1890; Elizabeth F. Gamble, 1910; Harriet Hinchcliff Coverdale, 1910; Rachel P. Snow, 1911; Charlotte Henze Decker, 1913; Dorothy Brown Hoffman, 1914; Jeannette Johnson Dempsey, 1924; Mary Louise Frackelton Gleason, 1924; Hilda Crosby Standish, 1924; Eleanor Wallace Allen, 1925.

If you are willing to be included, could you let us know as soon as possible, so that we can get the material to press before Mme. Chiang's letter loses its news-worthiness?

Yours very sincerely,

Miss Kate R. Andrews 19 Prince Street Rochester, New York Mrs. Maurice T. Moore Wellesley, 1924

My dear Miss Andrews:

Because you have been a generous friend to Yenching, you will be interested, I think, in a project that a group of Wellesley alumnae has undertaken on behalf of our sister college, Yenching.

I am enclosing a letter which we have recently sent to some twelve thousand Wellesley alumnae. the response to this letter has been so encouraging that we are planning to build, through the Wellesley constituency, a steady support for the Yenching College for Women.

Most of this will come through small gifts from a great number of alumnae. But to put the project on a sound permanent basis, we need a nucleus of larger donors on whom we can count as annual contributors.

In the enclosed letter we refer to three alumnae who have already undertaken such responsibility. We are hoping very much that we can add your name to theirs as an inner circle of Wellesley alumnae who are taking a vital share in the life of Wellesley's sister college.

Yours very sincerely,

(Mrs. Maurice T. Moore)

Memorandum

Mrs. Maurice T. Moore has just called from Connecticut and dictated this message:

"I have received from Mrs.
Macmillan the statement of funds available for the endowment. Will you say for me that I wish to have the $1500 from Miss Kate Andrews saved for the Wellesley-Yenching Fund, since it does not appear to be needed to make up the Endowment total."

THE COMPANY WILL APPRECIATE SUGGESTIONS FROM ITS PATRONS CONCERNING ITS SERVICE

My dear Miss Andrews:

I am sending you the enclosed folder because I wanted you to see this year's appeal which goes to the Wellesley alumnae. We are all hoping that their response will far outstrip last year's, which came from 1,241 contributors out of the 12,920 alumnae to whom the appeal was sent.

Contributions in 1940 totalled $7,752.52. This includes $500 of the $1500 you so generously sent to be allocated either to Wellesley-Yenching, or to the Yenching endowment. The treasurer of the united China Colleges held your check until we were absolutely sure the endowment could be completed without it, and I assure you that in those anxious days before the deadline, we sll took great comfort in the knowledge that your gift was at hand to redeem the large gifts that were contingent upon our raising the total sum. When the books were closed, we found that your total gift could be released and ellocated to three yearly installments for Wellesley-Yenching. We are delighted that in this way your gift represents a living endowment which will set a fine example to other Wellesley alumnae.

Our hope is to keep all our new Wellesley friends as annual contributors, so that this Wellesley-Yenching relationship will have stability as well as growth. It is to you, and a few other old friends of Yenching, that we owe the foundation for such stability, and I should like to take this opportunity to thank you again.

It was a joy and a privilege to meet you at the delightful luncheon in Rochester last fall. I saw Mrs. Remington a fortnight ago at Wellesley Alumnae Council, and she gave me a glowing account of the meeting at which you spoke about Yenching. At this particular time of crisis Yenching is fortunate indeed in having you for a friend.

From Dean Margaret Speer and Professor Augusta Wagner of Yenching, have come letters and messages expressing the deepest appreciation for your help through these difficult days. Their steadfast courage and dedication to the highest academic and patriotic standards, justify the abiding faith you have shown in their ability to train the leaders China so desperately needs. Unquestionably Wellesley can take pride in her sister-college.

Yours very sincerely,

(Mrs. Maurice T. Moore)
