The purpose of our compilation of the living index is to compare the present cost of living with that of 1936 if the real income of 1936 were maintained. As the increases in prices of commodities have been extremely rapid and the income of employees can hardly keep up the same degree, the largest part of one's income is compelled to be used in buying those which are necessary for maintaining livelihood, consequently, the previous standard of living can no longer be kept. From now on we are going to try out a new index comprising few necessities as an addition to the original index of living.

The items we have in the new index are reduced to a minimum. We only take into consideration those which the employees use in maintaining the lowest standard of living. They are those commodities the prices of which rise very rapidly.

The purpose of our compilation of the living index is to compare the present cost of living with that of 1936 if the real income of 1936 were maintained. As the increases in prices of commodities have been extremely rapid and the income of employees can hardly keep up the same degree, the largest part of one's income is compelled to be used in buying those which are necessary for maintaining livelihood, consequently, the previous standard of living can no longer be kept. From now on we are going to try out a new index composing few necessities as an addition to the original index of living.

The items we have in the new index are reduced to a minimum. We only take into consideration those which the employees use in maintaining the lowest standard of living. They are those commodities the prices of which rise very rapidly.

The purpose of our compilation of the living index is to compare the present cost of living with that of 1936 if the real income of 1936 were maintained. As the increases in prices of commodities have been extremely rapid and the income of employees can hardly keep up the same degree, the largest part of one's income is compelled to be used in buying those which are necessary for maintaining livelihood, consequently, the previous standard of living can no longer be kept. From now on we are going to try out a new index composing few necessities as an addition to the original index of living.

The items we have in the new index are reduced to a minimum. We only take into consideration those which the employees use in maintaining the lowest standard of living. They are those commodities the prices of which rise very rapidly.

The purpose of our compilation of the living index is to compare the present cost of living with that of 1936 if the real income of 1936 were maintained. As the increases in prices of commodities have been extremely rapid and the income of employees can hardly keep up the same degree, the largest part of one's income is compelled to be used in buying these which are necessary for maintaining livelihood, consequently, the previous standard of living can no longer be kept. From now on we are going to try out a new index composing few necessities as an addition to the original index of living.

The items we have in the new index are reduced to a minimum. We only take into consideration those which the employees use in maintaining the lowest standard of living. They are those commodities the prices of which rise very rapidly.

The purpose of our compilation of the living index is to compare the present cost of living with that of 1936 if the real income of 1936 were maintained. As the increases in prices of commodities have been extremely rapid and the income of employees can hardly keep up the same degree, the largest part of one's income is compelled to be used in buying those which are necessary for maintaining livelihood, consequently, the previous standard of living can no longer be kept. From now on we are going to try out a new index composing few necessities as an addition to the original index of living.

The items we have in the new index are reduced to a minimum. We only take into consideration those which the employees use in maintaining the lowest standard of living. They are those commodities the prices of which rise very rapidly.
