The Francis X. Cheney Lectureship in Pastoral Theology was established by students and friends to encourage a minister’s proper focus in pastoral care. The lectureship is open to scholars in all disciplines who seek to bring their expertise to bear on this subject. This lecture is given every second year at Berkeley Divinity School, alternating with the Louis Wetherbee Pitt Lectureship.

LECTURES

JENNY TE PAA-DANIEL, former Dean of Te Rau Kahikatea Seminary at St. John’s Theological College

Redeeming Anglican Imperialism: We Can, We Must, We Will, October 20, 2020.

MARTIN SEELEY, Bishop of St. Edmundsbury and Ipswich in the Church of England

JANE SHAW, Dean of Religious Life and Professor of Religious Studies at Stanford University

VICTOR ATTA-BAFFOE, Bishop of Cape Coast, Ghana

THEODICY JAZZ COLLECTIVE and THOMAS TROEGER, J. Edward and Ruth Cox Lanz Professor of Christian Communication

Canterbury Jazz Mass with commentary by Prof. Troeger, October 24, 2012.

KRISTA TIPPETT, creator and host of “Speaking of Faith”

REGINA SCHWARTZ, Professor of Religion and Literature at Northwestern University

Towards a Sacramental Poetics, October 11, 2006.

MARK MCINTOSH, Professor of Systematic Theology and Spirituality at Loyola University

SARAH COAKLEY, Edward Mallinckrodt, Jr. Professor of Divinity at Harvard Divinity School

The Woman at the Altar: Cosmological Disturbance or Gender Subversion? October 16, 2002.

Published as: “The Woman at the Altar: Cosmological Disturbance or Gender Subversion?” Anglican Theological Review 86 (2004): 75-93.

VICTORIA MATTHEWS, Bishop of Edmonton

STEPHEN PLATTEN, Dean of Norwich

BREVARD S. CHILDS, Sterling Professor of Divinity at Yale Divinity School

Interpreting the Bible in the Midst of Cultural Change, October 8, 1996.

Published as: “Interpreting the Bible Amid Cultural Change.” Theology Today 54, no. 2 (July 1997): 200-211.

ANN ULANOV, Professor of Psychiatry and Religion at Union Theological Seminary
